New Zealand Athletes at Major Championships 1983 - 2014

This booklet has been produced to document the achievements of New Zealand athletes and Athletics New Zealand when competing at major athletics competitions. The competitions include the World Athletics Championships, World Indoor Athletics Championships (formerly the World Indoor Games), Olympic Games, and Commonwealth Games. New Zealand has been represented at each edition of all of these since 1983 – the first World Athletics Championships, with two exceptions. New Zealand was not represented at both the 1989 and the 2006 World Indoor Athletics Championships.

The data outlines the number of athletes from New Zealand who competed at each Championship/Games, together with their event, their performance, and their finishing position. Where the finishing position is stated in (), this signifies their finishing position overall, and shows (in most cases) their position in preliminary rounds.

Recently, Athletics New Zealand has set Performance Targets for future teams. It is therefore appropriate to show how teams of the past have “fared”. For World Championships and Olympic Games, the performances have been collated into: medals, top 8 finishers and top 16 finishers. For the Commonwealth Games performances have been collated into: medals, and top 8 finishers.

This booklet will be updated yearly.
